John F. Ridge

Superintendent of Schools, John F. Ridge, has been a leader in the field of education for many years. His diligence and industriousness indeed merit our praise. Chelsea is fortunate to have such a dedicated man as its superintendent.

Mary E. Sullivan

Administrative assistant, Mary E. Sullivan, has proved her value as a member of the superintendent's team. Her knowledge in scholastic matters makes her an asset to the Chelsea school system.

Nathan T. Margolis

Mr. Margolis has now served as headmaster of the Chelsea High School for six years. From the outset he has proved himself capable of that demanding position. Striving to preserve high educational standards, he seeks to modernize the curriculum at Chelsea High. The hope of the Class of 1973 is that Mr. Margolis continue his commendable work for many years to come.

Edward V. Brown

Understanding and amiability are the key qualities that make Mr. Brown a favorite among the students. His willingness to talk makes us feel free to consult him on another matter. The Class of 1973 rejoices in having such a capable master at Chelsea High School.

Mr. Vincent Apruzzese has proven himself valuable as Junior Master at Chelsea High. He has handled many problems expertly as an administrator.

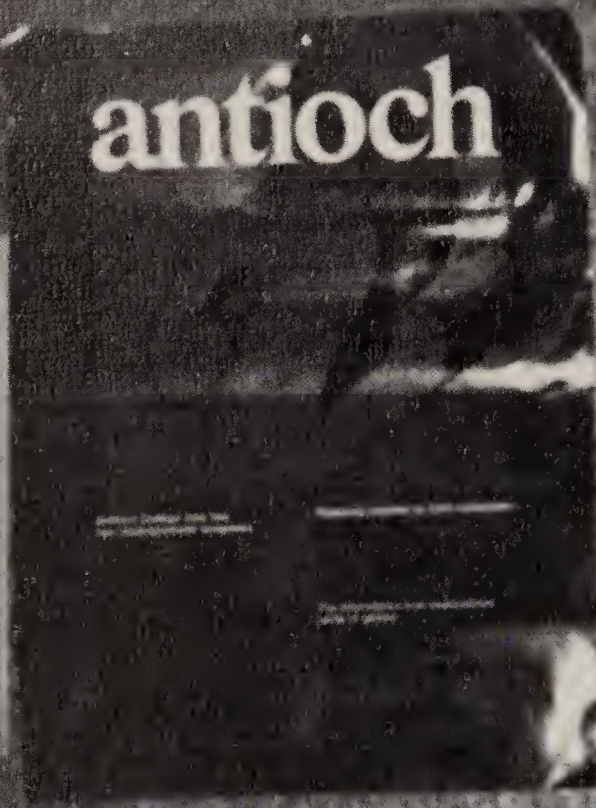

In her years at Chelsea High, Mrs. Evans has proven herself as a competent and indispensable aide to the administration.

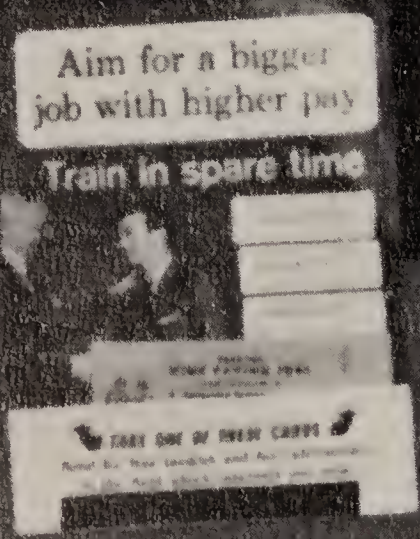

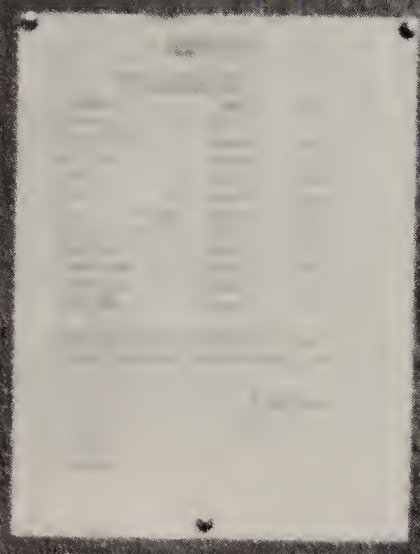

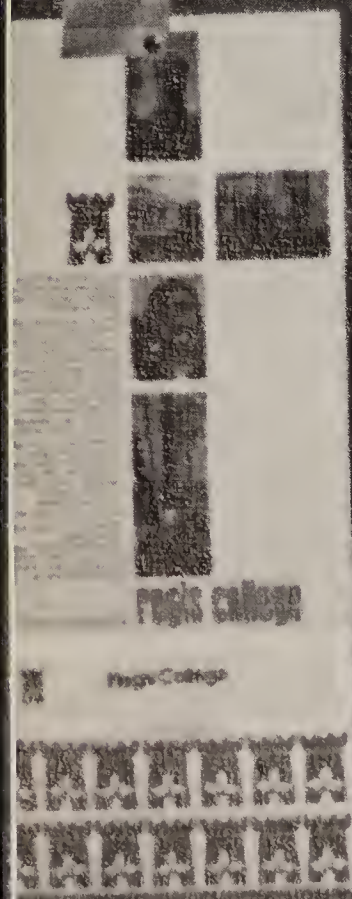

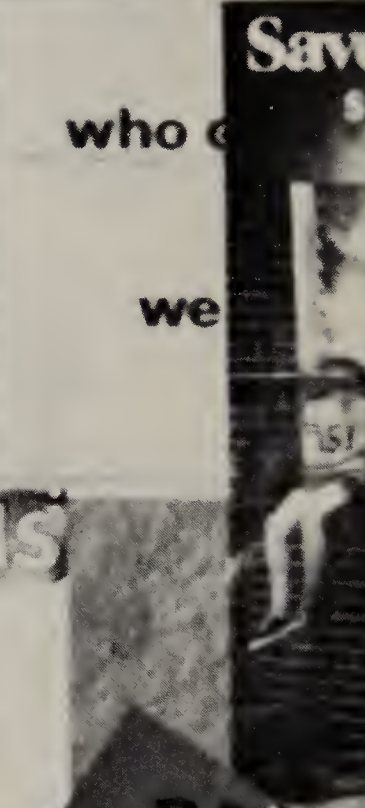

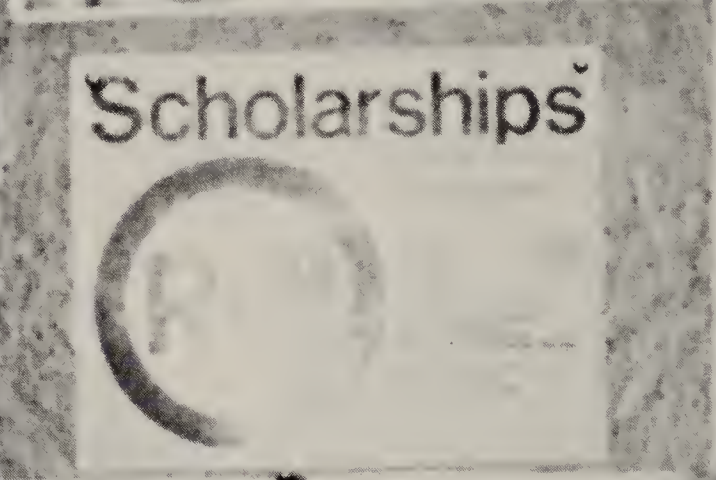

Mr. Roman Pucko, the Voice of Chelsea High, has been Junior Master for two years. His cheerful "thoughts for the day" have made everyone's day a little brighter.

Present at all football games, graduations, and other school functions at which a touch of symphonia is needed is The Band. Comprised of the top musical geniuses of Chelsea High, it creates a hand-clapping and foot-stomping atmosphere.

If you are a regular or even occasional spectator at football and basketball games, you will probably notice a bunch of girls cheering, yelling, and jumping up and down in the stands. They are members of the Pep Club. Their ever-present enthusiasm instills spirit in the fans and aids the cheerleaders. As their name suggests, they've got plenty of it.

If you pass the Beacon Room any time of day or night, you will hear a commotion worthy of the Ringling Brothers' Circus. If you step inside, you will view a scene more likely seen in the "Godfather." You will come upon unspeakable violence and bloodshed, frequent gang wars, and other unimaginable horrors.

This macabre scene comes as a result of meeting deadlines. Every month the staff comes upon the date circled in red on the calendar and marked with the deadliest of words: "DEADLINE."

In order to meet this, they must fight against time. This means 80 pages of typing in one night, chasing people in the halls for their pictures, trying to wrest questionnaires from unwilling hands, getting the photographers to develop four rolls of film in one night, and making endless phone calls pleading with people to write stories, draw pictures, type, or lay their lives on the line.

They have been known to go as far as swimming a moat to obtain pictures, climbing trees to retrieve those students who are camera shy, and organizing search parties to wander through the wilds of Chelsea High to find ladder diagrams and disappearing pictures, and worst of all, bearing the wrath of Mr. Bloom.

When the yearbook is finished, the staff can be reached at a nearby sanitarium for the hopelessly insane.

The antics of Spassky and Fischer in the frigid climate of Iceland provided a suitable atmosphere for the cool chess players of Chelsea High. King Dennis Metrick arranged many interesting and challenging matches for his pawns. However, these matches were greatly hindered by the participants' complaints. It seems that there were no cameras or audio bugs. This seemed to upset the players who got carried away in imitating their idols.

Twice a week, if you happen to be passing the "Y" Annex, you can hear the sweet, euphonious sounds of the Glee Club practicing. To be in the Glee Club, one must first try out. This tryout consists of explaining the difference between "do" and "mi", singing the scale backwards, and most important, hitting the highest note possible without breaking a window.

The Glee Club performs for many local and civic organizations, and the members delight in getting their names in the paper.

In the beginning of the year, one homeroom representative was elected by each of the ten homerooms. Just as they took office, though, they were routed from Chelsea High for voting themselves a salary increase retroactive to 1912. They were, however, welcomed back with open arms for passing favorable legislation on lunches — steak twice a week and macaroni and cheese never.

Of course, the most important legislation passed was the Students' Bill of Rights. Some of its main points are:

Amendment 1: The principle or school committee shall make no law restricting, abridging, denying, or prohibiting the freedom of talking to one's neighbor.

Amendment 2: All students shall be free from excessive or unusual punishments such as bodily injury, two weeks' detention, etc.

Amendment 3: The right of students to refuse to carry books shall not be infringed upon or violated.

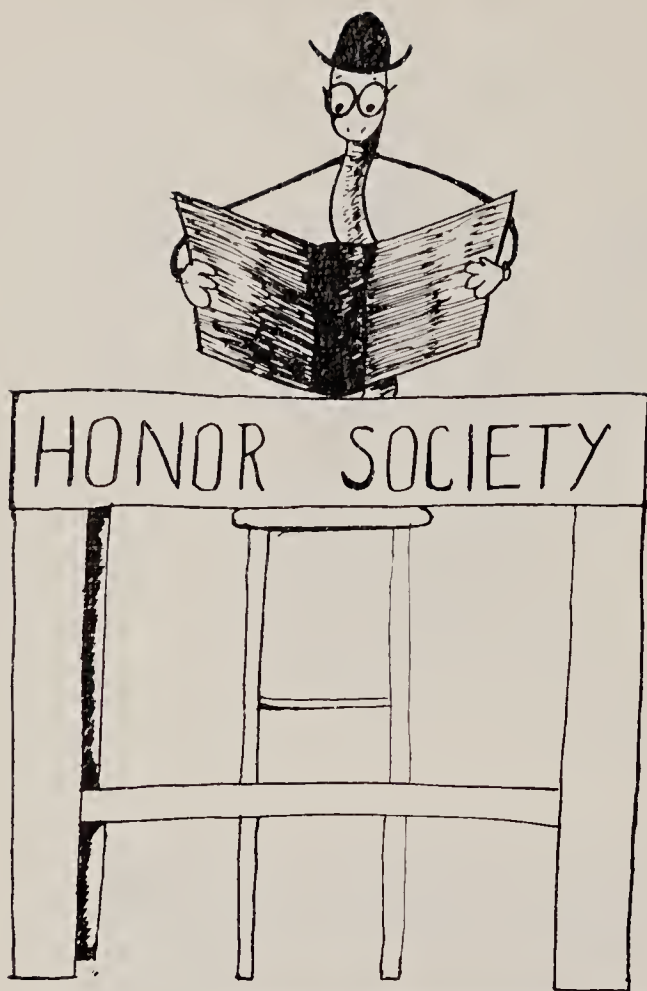

The Representatives certainly did a fine job. In fact, they enjoyed their work so much that they are flunking just so that they may run for re-election in 1974!

Homeroom Representatives

Homeroom Representatives SEATED: Rose Ellen Zakrzewski, Beverly Martin, Darlene Harvey, Anne Sweeney. STANDING: Jerry Bowen, Mary Ann Corea, Domenic Farinella, Robert Lombardi, Jody Pinksten, Mark Levine.

The most elite club at Chelsea High School is the National Honor Society. At times it is fondly referred to by admirers as the "Brain Trust" and at other times by dissenters or the envious as the "Book Worms". The work of the club is arduous, dedicated, and too often unrewarded. Four years of blood, sweat, tears, and dusty libraries earn no sweaters blazoned with a big "C", but merely a small gold pin with a smaller "CHS". Uncomplaining, they plod on with their studies, happy in the knowledge that Freud, Einstein, Fleming, and Kissinger never wore a football jersey or carried a bat to the plate. To these dedicated few, homework is like scrimmaging in the field of athletic combat.

For the members of the Honor Society, a day without homework is like a day without sunshine.

National Honor Society

Latin Club

SEATED: Suzanne Chapnik, Marjorie Bornstein, Debbie Albano — Treasurer, Miss Marilyn Glover — Advisor. REAR: Anthony Caggiano, Todd Newman, Mark Eskenas, Neal Finklestein. ABSENT: Susan Stec — President.

The Latin Club during the past year visited and dined in Rome and Athens without even leaving Boston. The atmosphere of Mama Leone's and the Athens Olympia provided all the members and Miss Glover, their advisor, with a good time and a taste of authentic Italian and Greek cuisine.

One of the highlights of the year was the conference of Latin Clubs in which Chelsea was represented. Each of the members was dressed in his latest-fashion toga. Many types of contests were enjoyed by the members, such as chariot races. This conference brought the season to a successful end.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club, under the leadership of President Domenic Farinella and Advisor Mrs. Frances Montesano, is one of the largest and most cultural clubs at CHS. Of the many activities it has undertaken, probably the most popular is that dedicated to the fine art of cuisine. The enthusiastic members frequently enjoy fiestas and trips to exotic Spanish restaurants where after a delicious and different meal, they're not quite the same. Amongst groans of, "I can't believe I ate the whole thing!", the group departs for Logan Airport from where they will fly third class (We can't afford first) to beautiful Madrid Square and the bullfights. And so the year ends.

Math Journal

The Math Journal is published once a month and is available to all mathematics students at CHS. Anyone may contribute articles, but the main writing staff must fulfill certain requirements:

1. All writers must be able to count to twenty without the aid of their fingers.
2. All writers must be able to draw a square from memory.
3. And all writers must be able to recite the multiplication tables from one to three.

The Math Journal contains puzzles, tricks, and math cross-words. It has been known to include such enigmatic problems as: How much is two and two? and, What kind of shape does a circle have? By the way, what kind of shape does a circle have?

At the end of the year, the Math Journal will be bound into three volumes and will be on sale. The price is $.25 per volume or three for a dollar. Be smart and take advantage of the bargain price of three for a dollar.

The Science Club was by far the busiest club. The members' first activity was a trip to the New England Aquarium. We had wished to go to Marineland in Florida, but that would have meant a slight increase in dues — $506.33 per member. Then we attended a lecture about balloons at the Harvard Observatory. The lecture was terrific, but the speaker got carried away and we couldn't understand him. You know how hard it is to understand a Harvard accent. Later we went to the IBM Datacenter. Rita, our guide, was unreal. Unreal! We plan to complete the year by viewing some films. They aren't exactly MGM pictures, but they are interesting. Of course, at the end of the year we will have our traditional farewell party. We'll toast marshmallows over the crackling flame of a bunsen burner and have plenty of flasks brimming with fruit punch. In June maybe we can even fly to Paris to pay homage to Louis Pasteur — if the party doesn't kill us.

Take Me Out to the Ball Game

This year the baseball season at Chelsea High featured exciting victories over arch rivals North Quincy, Somerville, and Malden. Here is a brief account of each game:

North Quincy:

In the ninth inning, Chelsea trailed by three, 5-2. With two men out the team caught fire. Chelsea exploded with four runs to defeat North Quincy 6-5. A real nail-biter.

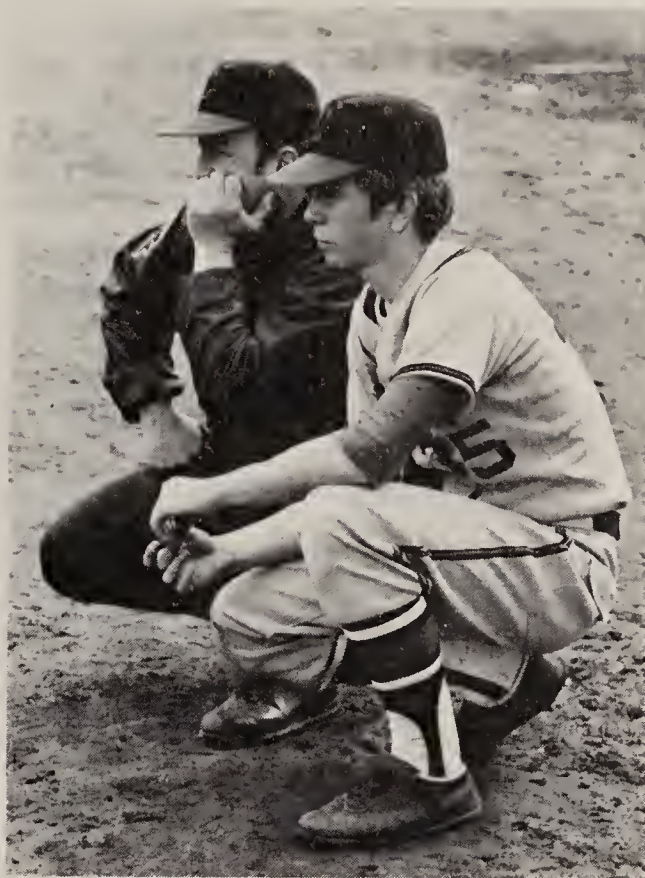

Somerville:

Playing the defending GBL champions, Chelsea burst to a 7-1 lead in only three innings. Adding two in the ninth, Chelsea romped to a 9-3 victory. A truly satisfying win.

Malden:

With the score tied 2-2 in the last of the eighth inning, Chelsea broke the deadlock scoring three quick runs. The final was 5-2. How sweet the fruits of victory!

This season may not have been the Impossible Dream but it's how you play the game that counts!

Basketball

This year's Chelsea High School basketball schedule was unique in that several non-league games were added. The season openers were against North Reading and Charlestown with both games resulting in victories for our boys and a surge of optimism by the Chelsea fans.

After these two games, the Red and Black quintet was forced to face tough G.B.L. competition. Although they didn't manage many victories, they fought with pride and hustled throughout each game.

The most memorable and hardest fought contest was against the powerful Revere Patriots. From the opening tap-off, Chelsea took charge with control of the boards and a well-balanced attack accented by a superb defensive effort by senior guard Paul Eaves and Co-captain Mark Levine. The scoring, as usual, was headed by Co-captain Tony Taraskiewicz.

At the half, Chelsea was leading by a surprising but scant three points. In the second half our boys continued to hustle, mixing mastered plays with fast breaks, but, as happens so often, bad luck plagued the Devils and they lost in the last few minutes.

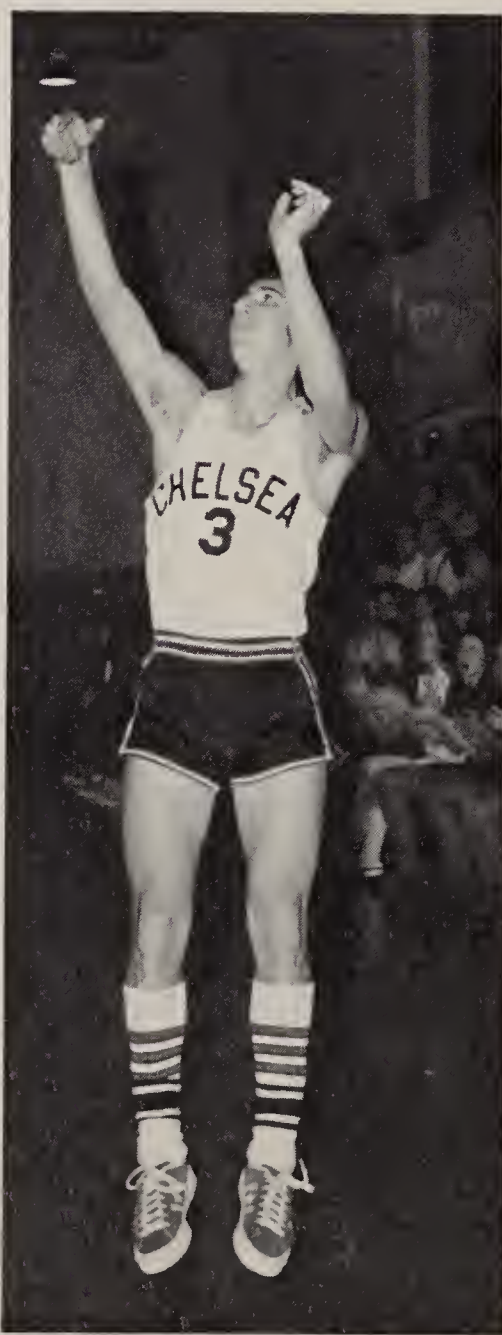

The remainder of the season's schedule provided much exciting action for the loyal Chelsea fans who always filled the Armory to watch and cheer for our boys.

Standouts this year in addition to the captains were Lee Atlas, George Levy and Danny MacKay, all seniors who practiced enthusiastically each day, and when given the chance, always performed well.

Overall, Coach Paul Drob's boys didn't fare too well in the win column, yet accolades are due them for their dedication and fighting spirit.

Co-captain Denise Wedge, Miss Constance Pike — Coach, Co-captain Debbie Murphy.

Our female hoop representatives were somewhat stymied this year by a lack of height. It might be said the Coach Connie Pike was building for the future. Anyway, the girls of Chelsea High School were outstanding in spirit, determination, and enthusiasm.

Co Captains Denise Wedge and Debbie Murphy both expressed the sentiment that winning isn't everything; we come to play and enjoy ourselves, and after all, isn't that what it's all about? Furthermore, where could hoop fans find a more beautiful bouquet of pretty females? No Amazons for our team; we like to give the shorties their day of glory.

The season wasn't a total loss though, as the Chelsea girls brought home a big victory over Everett by the score of 39-34. All who are on the team will long remember that day.

The girls of Chelsea High tried mightily, so what more can we ask? And remember, there's always next year.

The Chelsea High School Cross Country Team finished its finest season ever by posting a very impressive 10-3 record, and became the first winning team since the 3-2-1 record of the 1966 track squad.

One of the main ingredients of this year's success story lies in the fact that the boys participated in a very extensive summer program which was topped off by a week at the Catskill Sports Camp in Swan Lake, New York.

After the Devils returned from camp, they compiled a phenomenal 6 game winning streak by defeating, in grand style, Winthrop, twice, followed by victories over Dom Savio, Brookline, East Boston and Jamaica Plain.

As a result, the Chelsea boys became the talk of the town. They opened the Greater Boston League regular season by defeating the defending champions, Medford High, by the decisive score of 23-32. The other exciting victories were over Quincy, Everett and North Quincy.

This year's co-captains, Danny MacKay and John Manning and senior lettermen, Ken Richard, Mark Levine, Paul Eaves, Billy Ford and Bobby Lambright will take with them some great memories of this year's successful season. They leave behind them a strong team that will surely continue to challenge for the league title under the dedicated and watchful eye of Coach J. Barry Dwyer, who has done an exceptional job with the Chelsea High School harriers.

As a fitting tribute, this year's season was, from the outset, dedicated to former coach and teacher, Mr. Bernard M. Berenson, who will long be remembered by all who were associated with him, whether on the field, or in the classroom.

Comes Hard

Football

The Chelsea High School football team had reason to approach the '72 season with a new attitude of optimism. A successful training camp at Bethel, Maine and strenuous pre-season drills and practice sessions all motivated the Red Devils through a season that won't soon be forgotten.

In their home opener, victory and Lady Fortune eluded them. Throughout the game, the excited Chelsea crowd stood on their feet and roared as the much improved Chelsea eleven played an excellent game. The score began to mount as the Big Red launched a well balanced attack. Both the offensive and defensive teams performed superbly right up to the final gun, but victory passed through their fingers in the final ten seconds when the enemy recovered their own fumble in the end zone.

Despite the set-back that the Chelsea boys suffered, they came back strongly against the very formidable Malden Tornadoes. Outstanding play by Capt. Kevin Keohane, Co-Capt. John Malloy and running backs Guy Landers and Kevin Bowen brought the sweet fruits of victory to our boys in a 12-0 rout that greatly pleased the Chelsea fans who had travelled to Malden to watch the game.

As the season continued, the Red Devils were again denied victories due to some bad breaks. Then came the game against Rindge Tech when the Red and Black outplayed their opponent for a well-deserved 18-7 win before an appreciative home town crowd. The Chelsea defensive team led by Co-Capt. Mike Riley did a fine job in limiting Tech to a mere seven points.

When November 23 rolled around, all knew that it was time for the "Turkey Day Classic" against arch rival, Everett High. The feeling of optimism was still running high as a cold brisk wind rushed through Chelsea Memorial Stadium. From the opening kickoff, when Chelsea recovered an Everett fumble, things looked promising. The new scoreboard told the story as the two teams swapped touchdowns. This year's small Chelsea team gave it all they had in a gallant effort, yet the strong Everett backfield zipped through open holes for long gains. After the final gun sounded and the stands emptied, one couldn't help but experience a feeling of school unity and pride, despite the loss.

Hockey

Led by Co-captains Kevin Keohane and Mike Riley and Assistant Captain Jim Resca, the Red Devil hockey team began the 1972-73 season on the right foot with a 1-1 tie against Everett. The Club was so impressive that many said that a big season was in store. The puckmen tired not to let the fans down, coming back a few games later with a 5-4 victory over North Quincy, their first of the season. Only two late goals by the losers made the game as close as it was. The next Devil win came at the expense of Everett. A strong defense was combined with a potent offense in the 4-2 victory. These successes were short-lived, as the ranks of the team were hit with the flu, a couple of major injuries, and a rash of German measles. Playing with a somewhat weakened squad, the Devils hit the skids, losing eight straight. The team just could not put out a concentrated attack and the defense could not hold for three periods. Although disappointed, Coach Yanetti sees a brighter future for CHS hockey teams, especially next year, when a number of experienced players will return. The breaks worked against the Devils this year, and Dame Fortune smiled at their opponents.

Head Coach Anthony Bavaro

Assistant Coach J. Barry Dwyer.

The Chelsea High School outdoor track team of 1972 compiled an improved record of three wins and four losses. Under the leadership of head coach Anthony Bavaro and asst. coach J. Barry Dwyer, the stalwart and dedicated members of the Red and Black were able to make a respectable showing in the really tough Greater Boston League.

After a heart breaking loss in a close meet against Malden, the Red Devils fought back hard against Medford and earned a well deserved victory by the surprising score of 79-52. This proved to be Chelsea's biggest win.

The boys of Chelsea built on their laurels with a decisive victory over a tough team from North Quincy. It was a nip and tuck fight all the way as the score, 67-64, indicates.

The next three meets against undefeated Quincy, well balanced Revere, and perennial powerhouse Somerville ended in defeats. However, Chelsea's opponents did not triumph easily, for as they had done throughout the up and down season, the Red Devils performed with total desire and spirit.

Victory in the last meet of the season was especially satisfying, as arch-rival Everett hit the dust. In the final event of the meet with the Crimson Tide leading by a scant point, Chelsea's relay team sprinted to a spectacular win, and a sweet triumph for the Red Devils. What a great way to end the season!

Indoor Track

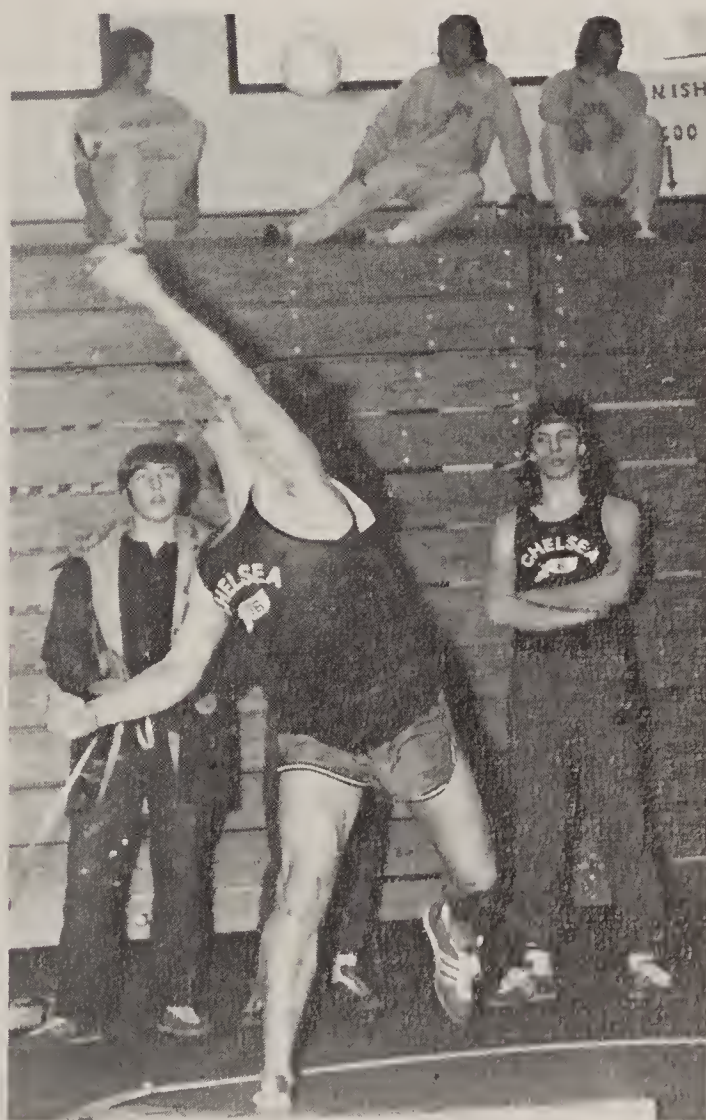

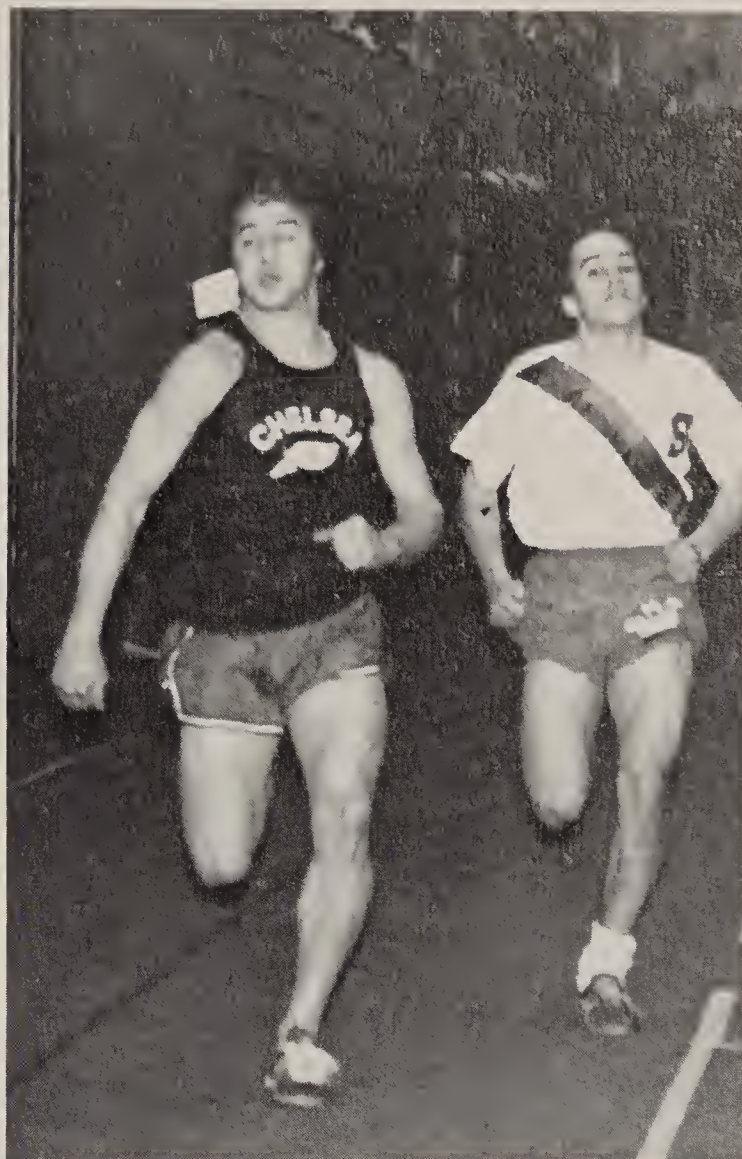

Chelsea High School's Indoor Track team had reason to be proud in '73, as they had the most successful season in recent years.

The key to this year's success lay in hard work and determination. The indoor facilities at CHS are not at all adequate for training so the dedicated boys from Chelsea took to the roads to fight wind, cold and sometimes snow and ice in order to practice. Head Coach Anthony Bavarro and Assistant Coach J. Barry Dwyer were there daily to put the team through its paces, and even though the conditions were poor, the attendance at practices was always excellent.

In the nine events that are included in an indoor meet, Chelsea always had a man or two in contention for first place honors. Senior Co-Captain Bobby Lambright was one of our better distance runners as he ran the mile and two mile. Co-Captain Guy Landers was always a threat in the demanding 300 in which he earned many blue ribbons. Rick Macomber, also a Co-Captain, was a key man in the 45 yard high hurdles, a strenuous event. Other Senior lettermen were high jumper and hurdler, Dan MacKay; 600, 1000, and two miler Ken Richard; sprinter and relay man, Kevin Bowen; 600 yarder John Leong; and Bill Ford who ran the 300.

All of Chelsea's wins were at the Commonwealth Armory where the Red and Black gained revenge on the teams that defeated them during the previous year. It wasn't long before the word got around that Chelsea was the team to beat. The competition consisted of teams in the Boston City League, and of the nine meets that were scheduled there, Chelsea went undefeated right up to the last day, when they were edged in a nip and tuck relay race, the last event of the exciting and seat squirming meet.

Members of the team will long remember this season, for it was only the second time in 13 years that a varsity squad had broken the elusive 500 mark.

AFFA

AIRS

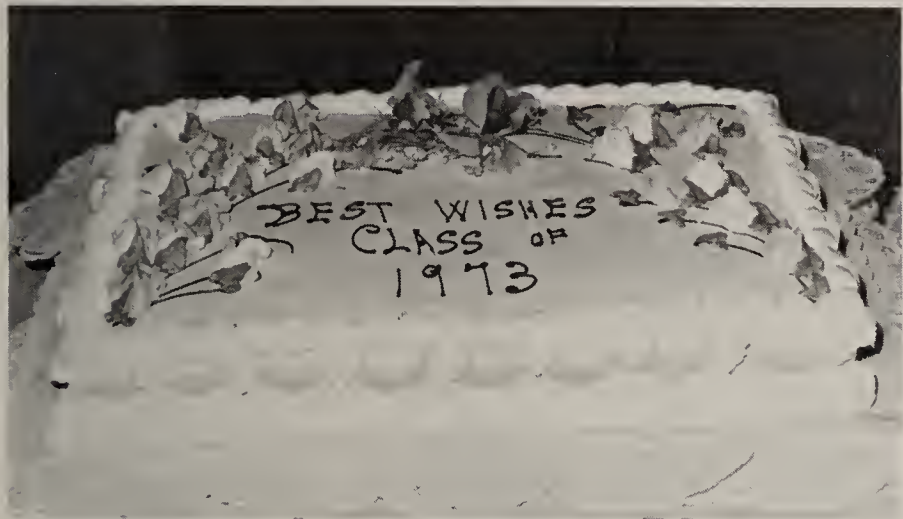

Romantic old time melodies and vibrant rock sounds combined to create the festive atmosphere of the C.H.S. Class of 1973 Junior Prom. The elegantly attired couples present at the Florentine Suite Ballroom enjoyed a delightful evening of dinner and dancing. Highlighting the evening was the traditional selection of a queen and her court. Chosen to assume the queenly crown was Nadine Mironchuk and selected for the Royal Court were Marjorie Bornstein, Linda Moore, Linda Savastano and Marie Britton. A joyful tone prevailed throughout the remainder of the Prom and it can truly be said that a memorable time was had by all.

Mr. Louis Boveri, Mrs. Sherril Boveri, Senior Class Advisor.

Dinner Dance

Resplendent in their gowns and formal attire, the belles and beaux of the Class of '73 flocked to the Chateau d'Or for the Senior Dinner Dance, the social event of the season.

A warmup period of mingling among friends, adjusting ties, rearranging coiffures, doing a few elementary dance steps, and generally adjusting to the social whirl followed.

With the completion of social amenities, the celebrants enjoyed a delectable meal of turkey and all the fixings. The conversation around the table was animated and lively. Dining completed and energy refurbished, the vivacious young ladies and their virile escorts soon filtered to the dance floor.

With the loud and raucous, yet rhythmic sounds of the band, a new and more exuberant mood set in. Soon ties were ripped off, shoes were left under the table, and jewelry was flung left and right as the crowd broke into a frenzy of dancing which lasted until midnight, when the tired but happy group broke up to head for Chinese restaurants, bowling alleys, and various other romantic spots.

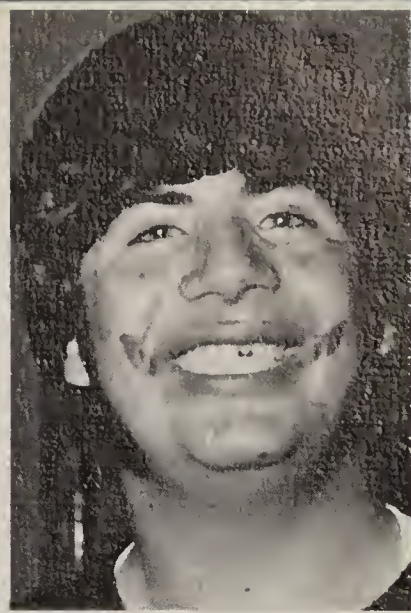

And so another dinner dance entered the memory book.

The political ambitions of some students of Chelsea High were realized on this year's Student Government Day. However, after having the students spend the day at City Hall, the real officials might have had a change of heart in continuing with their current careers in the face of such great competition.

Mayor Spelman found his job in jeopardy. The new mayor, Paul Eaves, came up with a slogan that is sure to appeal to the voters of Chelsea — "Better government at lower cost."

The School Committeemen found that their student replacements' stand of a "new high school for better education" provided them with a few sparks for their own discussions. The other proposals made by the temporary officials expressed a great degree of intelligence and political know-how.

And so, Student Government Day provided the students with an understanding of the mechanics of municipal government and an insight into the responsibilities of the "everyday" officials. Perhaps, too, it provided a slogan or two for Mayor Spelman's re-election campaign.

You're about to take a giant step forward into your future. We think we can make it the bright one you want it to be at New England Telephone. With a job that's every bit as big as your ambition. You see, we need people. With all kinds of talents. And especially, people who really want to get going with their future. And want to be rewarded with automatic raises. If you want a job and a future that's tailored to your talent... along with unusually generous fringe benefits, stop in and see your guidance counselor. Ask when and where you can apply for an interview with the people who want to make your future as happy as you want it to be.
